NEW AGE GERMAN OFFICE FEATURED ON KOREAN TV PROGRAM

TeMana Noni + Collagen, as well as New Age, just got some wonderful exposure in Korean!

A Korean TV crew this summer made the trip to Germany to record footage at the local New Age office. The footage was used for a program about skin elasticity and aging that just aired in Korea.

The program featured a member of the German office, Susanne Wendlik, talking about TeMana Noni + Collagen. Susanne was shown both at the office and at her home, as well as riding her horse. She shared her personal experiences with Noni + Collagen, including how she prefers to use it (mixing it in her shakes) and the positive effects it has had on her.

Mayumi and Makoto Jitsugiri

BUSINESS BECOMES GENERATIONAL FOR THE JITSUGIRI FAMILY

Mayumi and Makoto Jitsugiri In Japan have a lot to be proud of. Not only did they qualify as Brand AD this summer, but their daughter Nanaho is having her own success as an IPC. In fact, all three were recently awarded title advancements together as a family.

"Last September, one month after I turned 20 years old, I joined Morinda," said Nanaho. "When TeMana Eyelash Essence was launched in July, I felt strongly that this product would catch the attention of younger people. So, I focused on using and promoting this product, seeing a big business opportunity. As a result, I not only shared TeMana Eyelash Essence, but also shared many other TeMana products with younger people. I discovered an important principle: I should enjoy doing this business, and my attitude reflects on other people. My excitement and emotion will spread to others! Others will feel it and take it to other people. Now I understand how this business will grow!"

Of course, Nanaho has two great examples to look towards, thanks to her mother Mayumi and father Makoto.

She noted that as she was growing up, she would watch her mother work hard to help others. Well, Mayumi is still hard at work to this day!

"After I participated in the TeMana Star training in Milan, my life has been accelerated," said Mayumi. "The potential of TeMana Silk products caught the hearts of my group members. Our advancements happened because of all my group members' work and efforts. I believe there exists greater potential in the Morinda business that I haven't seen yet. I would like to seek it out! Our journey will not end here. We will continue aiming to qualify for Centurion."

Makoto, meanwhile, has been hard at work himself, reaching out to many people and sharing the business opportunity.

"I already contacted 85 people and introduced the Morinda business, but no one has signed up to be an IPC yet," he said. "But, I enjoy doing this. I won't give up and give in. So, I will talk to 200 more people and introduce this business."

For these three family members, receiving title advancements together was a unique experience.

"We are grateful for being recognized and celebrated as a family and a group today!" exclaimed Mayumi at the recognition ceremony.
